'When I first started out ... I only had a handsaw, drills, square, nails, a bag and a hammer.'

The NPA has high unemployment. There is CDEP, and there are many training courses to gain required skills. There is also a lot of work. Mayor Joseph Elu expressed long ago, 'There is enough work for everyone.' There are many opportunities for local residents to start their own ventures and many have already done so. Mr Tony Mara runs his own business, Mara Carpentry Services, and is just one example of how one can stand on their own feet.

"When I started out my business, I started working with my brother-in-law first, when I was in Grade 11, when I was about 16 years old. I started doing a bit of work with him and he was showing me a bit of stuff that he was doing as a builder."

"I sort of got attached to it and thought, 'Oh, here is what I wanted to do.' I wanted to be a mechanic previously and I was going in that direction. When I did carpentry I fell in love with carpentry, I started heading in that direction. I started at 16, do a bit of work every time I go on holidays, go with my brother-in-law. When I got out of school, I think I went with Sports and Recreation, and then I think I went to Ready Mix. A couple of months I worked with that and then went straight into carpentry. I've been working contract I think most of my life with my brother-in-law, a bit of work with council, but mostly contracting since I was 16. I've been doing it for a long time. Yeah, just the benefit of seeing what you've built with your hands, and you know it will always be there for several years."

"Sometimes you lose track of what you've built, you build so many things, just the reward of building something. I think the last job I did with my brother-in-law, we did 4 houses on Coconut Island, and after that I've been on my own. I sort of started buying my own tools. When I first started out I only had a handsaw, drills, square, nails, a bag and a hammer. That's all I started off with and did little jobs. All the money that I made out of it, I put all of that back into my business, buying more and more tools. I had a deal with Mitre10 at the time. I used to deal with them down in Cairns. What I did was I put a large sum of tools aside and I sent money every time I got my pay. I wrote down a big list of tools that I needed and slowly paid it off. They did a good thing by me and actually sent it up a bit earlier. I ended up paying it off anyway and I started my account with them. Ever since then I have always been with Mitre10. The reward to that I actually started talking to Mitre 10, brought them up here. We got them started to bring their business up here as well."

Q: Can anyone do that, start on their own? A: "Very easy, it's just a matter of getting up and getting out there, doing it. Don't be scared. There is a lot of help. I told my other nephews and that, they want to get out there and do it, I'm willing to help them get up to speed where I am now. I don't know everything, but I always ask and query about things, tap into people, ring other mates to find out things. My brother in-law was pretty smart. He taught me a lot. He is not like a bloke that builds and expects you to do the work. He actually shows you, teaches you, shows you how to do things. That's the good thing about him. I'm doing the same thing today, brushing off what I know to others. I'm not scared to lose that skill to other people, so they get some skills and get some money for their families."

Mr Mara is now 33 years old. "I have been building for 17 years now, 15 to 17 years." Q: What about the other skills needed in business, the books, accounting etc: "You do a lot of modules through your times. A module only teaches you the theoretical side of things. The practical you got to learn on site. I did all my hands-on work before I done my books. By the time I got to my books I just answered the questions just like that, because I knew what I was doing. It made it heaps easier. The other thing you got to ask yourself is if you love the job. You don't do it just because of the money. You got to have to love it. If you don't love it, don't do it. You'll be wasting your time, because your jobs won't come out like you want them to."

"I'm hoping to eventually in the next 2 or 3 years to be building my own house. I'm trying to get my modules for my next licence level and hopefully get my collateral up a bit, I'm thinking on taking on a house for myself. I got some good workers that have been working with me, that are keen to work with me. Yeah, I got a lot of boys that offered to work with me. They say, 'If you ever start to build a house, we want to be in your crew.' So, I got a lot of hands out there, I narrowed them all down to their work ethics, how much work they can put in a day. That's all I've done. As I work with them I take note of how they work and what they do. I don't have apprentices, I got workers. Whoever works with me, whatever I'm doing, I teach them. I don't leave them in the dark. Before we even start any job, we all stand together. I'll explain what I want done and how we're going to do it. If they have a different way and the result is the same, then I'm happy. I'd like to keep them up to speed, not stand there not knowing what to do. I believe that is the best and most effective way to do a job, everybody knowing what they are doing, not standing around."

Mr Tony Mara's rig of truck with trailer is seen all over the NPA, one day building the boxing for a retaining wall at the Ranger Base, another working on Injinoo's toilet block near the lookout and so many other places.

His love for the job is always reflected in the work, the chamfered ends of the support beams at Umagico's water tank support near the Feasting Shed, are just one example. The top of the posts are painted to stop moisture getting in.

Mr Mara expressed that for some it is a good idea to leave the NPA, to go and get the knowledge and skills, 'get something up and running' and then bring it back to the NPA. The opportunities are there, one just has to look at the many traineeships / apprenticeships currently offered by Q-Build to start in Feb 2012, the mining operations at Weipa and so many others.

Foot in the door

Applications open for QBuild apprenticeships and traineeships for 2012. "These positions will provide a foot in the door to a specialised trade career for 100 applicants across Queensland, said Minister Simon Finn (Building Industry Minister)." "QBuild has specifically allocated 18 of next year's positions to Indigenous applicants," said Mr O'Brien, MP for Cook in a Media Release (31th Oct).

Ten of these new positions would be filled in the Cape York region, including one for a construction worker trainee position in Bamaga.

"QBuild has specifically allocated 18 of next year's positions to Indigenous applicants," Mr O'Brien said, "and that's the absolute minimum that QBuild will take on."

Last year QBuild had 15 positions on offer solely for Indigenous apprentices, but they took on 27 new Indigenous apprentices or trainees." Mr O'Brien urged women to apply as 11 were included in last year's recruitment drive.

ABC Far North in New Mapoon

ABC Far North had a chance to tour Cape York for a week, in the process visiting the NPA conducting live interviews from New Mapoon store and from many other places. Presenter, Mr Richard Dinnen, Mr Phil Staley (producer) and Mr Bob Apolloni (technical wizard) started off from Laura, then Coen, Lockhart River, Bramwell Station and NPA, all the way up to Pajinka (the Tip at Cape York). It was a test run to see what the ABC Far North can do from remote locations, to meet the many people along the way and also prove the equipment gets the signal out. NPA News, issue 29 had a 3 page spread on Turtle Head Island, Cape York, the biggest pearl farm in Queensland, written before its first harvest in August 2011. Mr and Mrs Tully are more than pleased, not just with the quality of their harvest.

Mrs Bronwyn Tully explains, "We were contacted by Anna Bligh's office a couple of weeks ago about being on their list to supply gifts for dignitaries, and then they phoned back and asked if they could buy a pearl to present to the Queen on behalf of the people of Queensland on her visit to Brisbane. Of course we said 'yes!' It is so exciting knowing that one of our pearls has gone to Buckingham Palace. Maybe she'll use it in the Crown Jewells!"

"Rusty (Tully) chose a beautiful gem grade, silver drop cream, pearl, 10.8mm by 11.07mm from the harvest in August and packaged it off in one of lovely wooden jewellery boxes. It was presented to the Queen last Monday (24th Oct, 2011) while she was in Brisbane. We weren't allowed to tell anyone about it until after it was presented, but I'm sure Rusty told half of Bamaga when we went in to post it! There was an article in the Courier Mail on page 4 on 25/10/11."

(Her Majesty The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visited Australia 19th Oct to 29th Oct, 2011) What of the first harvest in August?

"Our harvest was indeed a success," says Mr Rusty Tully. "When we seeded in 2009 we used virgin shell. When we graded the harvest we were surprised to find our largest A-grade round pearl was 14.2mm. This is very good."

"Of all the pearls harvested and graded into shapes, 40% were round. A very high percentage. Of the test plots we placed around the farm, one section yielded 45% pink hue. An outstanding result."

"It is a great experience actually harvesting your pearls and going through the process of cleaning and grading."

"As pearl farmers this was our first harvest and we thoroughly enjoyed the experience. It totally justifies all the hard work and patience required.

We are now contemplating extending our production time to three years as opposed to two."

There was enough in the proceeds to acquire a ride-on mower at the recent Bamaga auction, much easier than to whipper-snip the island's airstrip.

Power generation in the NPA

Ergon Energy is the local provider for electricity in the NPA. From the Bamaga depot two services work together to bring the power to our homes. One is generating the power (Generation) whilst the other distributina is electricity from the power station to the houses (Poles and Wires).

Mr Tommy Sebasio, a technical service person, Grade 4, working at Bamaga power station explains.

"We have over 400000 litres storage (on site in Bamaga). SeaSwift brings it in once, sometimes twice a week. We average about 11000 litres of fuel a day. In winter it goes down a little bit. In summer with water usage and heat, it climbs up a little

"We are obligated to have at least 70 days supply of fuel. That is not necessarily stored here in Bamaga. If we need to we can bring it either by truck, it's been known for helicopter to fly in the fuel, in some of the remote communities (when roads cut access)."

smaller set. Very early in the morning, let's say 2 to 3am we may have one set running." "Our demand can be 2.1meg and our capacity is 3 times 1500 plus the 850 (5350kW). Early in the morning (like 3am) we have the lowest load, midday on a day like this, between 11am and 1pm it will peak and then it will peak again when everybody goes home and starts cooking."

The Bamaga station has 4 generator sets, 3 of which are rated at 1.5 giga Watts, or 1500kW (kilo Watts) and we have a smaller one rated at 850kW. During the day at peak periods we run two big sets. Early in the day and after 11pm at night we might be running one big set and one

Question: 'Has there been any reduction since the powersavvy campaign started?' "Powersavvy contributed to some, I wouldn't say it was significant..., there have been some changes in fuel usage, I think people have become smarter in the usage of power, that way we save in the fuel."

Cost of power in remote communities is higher due to freight costs and installation and maintenance costs of equipment.

"We are getting subsidised, you pay the same price as you would in Brisbane. I think we are paying now for domestic 22.75 cents per unit of electricity. It costs us a lot more than that to generate it. It's certainly cheaper to generate it down south. If we were paying the real costs, it would be more than 22 cents."

Minister Stephen Robertson explained in Issue 21, NPA News, page 9, "Queensland Government pays Ergon what is called a Community Services Obligation, $400 million, so no matter where you are in Queensland as a domestic consumer, your household, you pay the same electricity price as we do in Brisbane. That has been a long-term commitment by the Queensland Government."

The 3 larger generators are QSK60 Cummins driven engines (each with cylinders, 4-cycle, 60.2 litres), and the smaller one (QSD30).

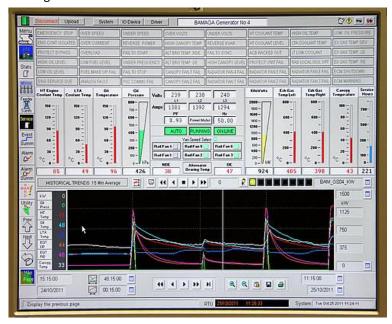

"The engines are more efficient to the ones we had before. They certainly run a lot cleaner with the new technology that came in," says Mr Tommy Sebasio.

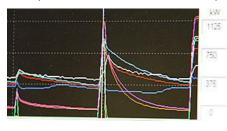

The control room. The cabinets on the left house the analogue displays of each of the generator sets.

The engines have safety systems to protect them, such as low on oil, deviation in temperatures between the left and right banks on each side of the V16 engine, higher or lower voltage than normal and many others. Each generator-bay has a small fuel day tank which is refilled as needed with diesel, likewise with oil.

Generator-set 4 showing the cooling temperature, coolant, oil, oil pressure, loading now is 1500 (yellow), Service hours (blue on right). "When it gets to 350 hours they'll do a service on it." The graph is history over the last few hours. "The spikes, you know what happens 11pm? The card-reader at home, most of them are tariff 11 and tariff 33. Tariff 33 is only 18 hours of supply to get to your hot-water system. around 11pm it turns back on. The other spike is the night before. The smaller spike is lunch time. The yellow line is the kW, the green is the oil pressure, so when your load goes up your oil pressure goes up as well."

The generated power is output through four 'feeders' to the communities. The first is the 'Hospital feeder' which will always have priority over all others. The second feeder is 'New Mapoon'. The 3rd is 'Cowal Creek' and the last is the 'Bamaga town feeder.' If we have to load-shed, a fault in the middle of the night, the computer will make the decision which feeder will be switched off."

"We can isolate this transformer and still feed Cowal Creek through the hospital feeder."

The four feeders supply the 4 different power lines that leave the station, the ones carrying 3 cables. These are all 22000 volts which is more efficient. Transformers at various places bring the voltage down to 415V or 240V. At the side of the station are the hospital feeder lines, while across the road the Cowal Creek, New Mapoon and Bamaga town feeder lines carry power where needed. The hospital feeder also supplies power to the Jardine water pumps. "It is the priority one, supplying the hospital and Jardine, and I live on it too, so it must be important," says Mr Sebasio with a grin.

Access to the power station is restricted. One has to do a safety induction and wear the appropriate personal protective equipment. Fire extinguishers are located at every access point and prominent safety messages are throughout the plant.

This image represents the powerlines coming off the feeders. The hospital line is shown in yellow (it also feeds the Jardine pumps).

Personnel are available 24hours a day in case there are any emergencies. There are three people employed at the power station, one for Power Generation, two for Poles and Wires. "But we work together. Both Craig and I are electrical mechanics," says Mr Sebasio.

Ergon Energy is a Queensland Government Owned Corporation. In remote and isolated locations it owns and operates 33 remote power stations throughout Queensland, more than half are located in the Torres Strait (16) and NPA (1).

Environmental Health Services

Seisia and Bamaga sewerage is treated at the Bamaga facility (yellow circle).

One of the most important services in the NPA is provided by the staff of Environmental Health as it relates to the health of every resident.

Mr George Mara and his team are looking after waste management (garbage collection), sewerage and water, animal management and food control, all under the umbrella of Environmental Health Services.

Sewerage:

"When you flush the toilet, it goes down through the pipes to the manholes in the communities and down to the pump station."

At the pump station are baskets to catch anything that should not be in there, to prevent damage to the pumps. These baskets need regular cleaning out and everyone in the community can help that the system functions as intended by only flushing bodily waste down the toilet. Plastic wrappers, shirts, underwear and all sorts of things are flushed down the toilet. They can damage the pumps, and they are not broken down by bacteria.

"Each community has a pump station. From the pump station it pumps to the lagoons, the sewerage ponds." Injinoo and Umagico share the same sewerage ponds. New Mapoon has its own, while Seisia is now connected to the Bamaga sewerage line. Once the effluent reaches the first pond it settles and is broken down with the help of bacteria. "There is a drainage system that drains into other ponds and so on," says Mr Mara. At the Bamaga facility the water from the last (the cleanest) pond is dispersed with sprinklers.

At Bamaga larger items are held back by these bars (right image). "Every morning and afternoon the boys go and rake all the racks up. If a pump should fail everything comes into the manholes and fills them up."

In regards to animals Mr Mara said, ""If you own an aggressive dog, put it in a pen and try to prevent it from getting out."

Waste collection:

"The garbage bins are emptied twice a week," explains Mr Mara. "The truck brings the rubbish to the garbage dump and tips it out. Mondays and Thursdays are the rostered days for Seisia, New Mapoon and Injinoo. Tuesdays and Fridays are the rostered days for Bamaga and Umagico. At the refuse tip are three areas, there is green waste, building rubble and general rubbish and also an area for car bodies and animal carcasses. At the end of the week the boys jump on the excavator and flatten it, compact it, and put 50mm or 100mm of dirt down, to hold the rubbish down. With the strong winds paper and plastic bags keep flying around."

"If people wanted to defrost their fridge, don't throw raw stuff into the bins. One time one of the boys complained that they couldn't lift the bin. When they opened the lid there was turtle and you know ... too heavy." There are four people employed in the garbage waste management.

Regional Waste Management Strategy

A two day seminar was held at Thursday Island discussing Regional Waste Management Strategies.

Mr Jim Foody, Director of NPARC's Engineering Services, "There is a feasibility study been done by AURECON engineering company). I was at the inception meeting. brought our case on what we felt was the only way forward for us here (NPA), and our solutions are radically different than those that they have to propose to Torres Shire Council and Torres Island Shire Councils."

"They have to have quite elaborate solutions, they can't have landfills. We have the room and area for landfill."

"It was decided yesterday (26th Oct, 2011) that they would recommend that we go on the landfill, we build the landfill idea, but they are suggesting that the integration with the region is such that we may accept recycled goods from the outer island councils, and we may also accept their ash from the incinerators."

At the Loyalty Beach turn-off.

Regional

Waste Management Strategy

"In such case it would be a business proposition for us with the landfill. We would actually take their burned waste, their ash. The ash would have to go in our landfill, but our landfill would become an proposition, economical we would actually be paid to take their waste."

"This is the strategy we are examining at the moment. It's a very good result for us because it will allow us a pathway to MIP funding, to development funding, it will actually be run through the programme."

"We have kicked a goal, because AURECON's recommendation will trigger MIP funding and the start on the works with the landfill. That was a bit of a goal we managed to get across the line yesterday."

"Our worry was always that they think up some airy fairy scheme that is more applicable to the outer islands that was going to be very difficult and costly for us to carry on."

HACC projects

Home and Community Care projects in the Torres Strait and NPA are to get $18,282 to enable the delivery of more services to help older people with disabilities live independently. The total boost of $576k will go to 21 local community organisations (state-wide), Mr Jason O'Brien, MP for Cook announced on 31st Oct, 2011 in a Media Release. Minister Pitt (Disability Services), "The extra funding for Cook is part of a $16.7 million boost to the joint State -Commonwealth Home and Community Care (HACC) programme." In 2011-12 the state-wide programme is worth $523 million to Queensland.

"Investing in home and community care services not only gives people a better quality of life, it also helps to reduce pressure on residential care and nursing homes," said Mr Pitt.

Road works

Mr Jim Foody, Director of NPARC's Engineering Services, "The lack of water has always been an issue in the dry season for road building in the NPA. Just recently we embarked on a programme on building quite a number of dams adjacent to roads we want to do in the future. Punsand Bay is a good example. We got money there to do the road. We are unable to do anything, because there is just no water up there or anywhere up that way. About a month ago we build a number of dams up there, which will fill up over the wet season, and that will allow us to fully upgrade that road to Punsand Bay next year. Without the water and hauling water great distances we just can't fit within a budget anywhere, but by having the dams there to travel 5 or 6km to haul water it allows us to economically build a road and maintain a road a lot better."

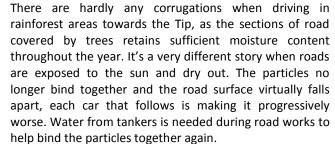

every 10 km there is a dam. These dams had never ever been built before in the NPA and will allow us much more efficiently to maintain our road network up here."

At the Umagico feasting shed the benches are in place and electrical work is carried out by NPA Electrical, fitting switchboard, power points and lights.

RHD / ARF

This article is a follow up from several previous issues NPA News relating to RHD / ARF, but in particular issue 31.

RHD = Rheumatic Heart Disease. ARF = Acute Rheumatic Fever.

Above: Griffith University, Gold Coast Campus.

Professor Michael Good and Dr Michael Batzloff are both research leaders in the process of developing a vaccine against the Group A Streptococcus (GAS) bacteria, the cause of ARF which can lead to RHD. As previously reported they researched at the Queensland Institute of Medical Research (QIMR) and both are now continuing at Griffith University, Gold Coast. Over 11 years of research has gone into the project. There are still some hurdles to overcome but there is also a sense of excitement as the first human trials with the vaccine are likely to begin early 2012.

Nov, 2011, at the Institute for Glycomics at Griffith University, Gold Coast (image above).

Professor Michael Good: "A vaccine has been produced for human tests. It's undergoing its final, what is called a 'toxicology safety profiling test', which is done in animals occurring in America and Australia (Brisbane). When it passes those tests it will then be ready for a 'first in humans', or a 'Phase 1' test, which we plan to do in Brisbane, hopefully sometime early 2012. That will also be a test of safety and also to see whether the vaccine induces antibodies which can recognise the Strep* germ and kill it. If it passes those tests in terms of safety we would then look to do a subsequent trial with an 'at risk' population, likely to get Rheumatic Fever or Rheumatic Heart Disease, such as an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander population."

*) Strep = Group A Streptococcus (GAS) bacteria.

Professor Good explained that discussions were held with RHD Australia communities and he had several visits to Yarrabah.

Q: Is the vaccine intended for people who have already contracted RHD or ARF or intended for people who might be at risk of contracting ARF?

A: "You could do both. We start off with people at risk, who haven't contracted it but are likely to get it. What we would look at, ideally it is given to children, they are the ones at risk. So you give it to children and you look for whether they develop skin infections or throat infections or less of them after getting the vaccine. That's how we would measure its effects. If it prevents skin or throat infections we would say it's effective, because you can only get Rheumatic Heart Disease after you had a skin infection or a throat infection. It is all pretty exciting but it's just a painfully long process, in terms of going through all the regulatory hoops, but we're gradually getting there, I hope."

Dr Michael Batzloff, "There are a lot of processes in place you have to go through to move a vaccine from the bench-side and into the clinic. We got our vaccine, we are ready to go there and we're in the process of ethics application, toxicology and safety assessment. Any little observation that is made in the toxicology report you have to investigate in detail. So we want to move forward with a safe vaccine. We got to make sure it is totally safe before we move forward. We have finished the toxicology. We have the report from that. We are just about to send that out for an independent assessment. Obviously we can't comment on things like this (meaning the content of the report). We also have to audit places that we are involved in the manufacture of our vaccine."

"We have another independent person who is independent of us and is not involved in the development of the project having to go and audit companies and organisations that were involved in the vaccine. We want to make sure they did everything they said they did, and they did it correctly. I am confident all the companies we engaged did it correctly; it's just as part of the checks and balances in the process of making the vaccine, you have to be sure of that. It is quite amazing the numbers of companies you use, so we have to buy components from different parts of the world, and then they are made in one particular processing facility, and it's moved from another facility where they do formulation."

"It really comes back to when do we get the independent assessments... we can go to clinic," says Dr Batzloff. "We submitted our 'ethics' for one of our first stage ethic's application and we'll see how that goes with the next ethic's meeting and I'm sure they'll have numerous comments which we will address. We'll then move forward conducting the clinical trial. It's a very exciting time."

...continued.

Dr Batzloff, "It's quite amazing if you look in general terms for drugs and vaccines. Sometimes it can take from 10 to 20 years to get a drug or a vaccine onto the market. There are just general terms, there are obviously examples that have been produced onto the market quicker ones that took longer. It is not a quick process. For drug every vaccines that make it to market there are thousands that don't. They come along the process that may not get to market, because it may not work or it may not be economical viable to produce, or it could have a toxic side effect. In general terms there are thousands of candidates that don't ever make it to market."

"Strep is a big problem generally schoolthe age years, from 5 to 15 year olds that we'd be looking at giving to children. They develop an immune response and that immune response attacks and kills the bacteria when they are exposed to it and they are protected from it, very much like the other vaccines currently out there. Vaccines are one of the most cost-effective medical interventions. We've been lucky with Strep, generally speaking. It's still susceptible to Penicillin and other antibiotics."

Horse handling

If you want to ride a horse, you first have to catch it. You could chase them all over the paddock, do the '10000 steps' exercise bit at the same time and, with a bit of luck, find the horse.

Wrong!

Mr Phil Beyers just calls their names and they come to him. Wherever he goes they follow as close as a dog on a leash.

Marble and Pascoe.

Mr Beyers teaches the Year 8 to Year 12 students.

Issue 32 Nov/Dec 2011

Mr Beyers lives at Atambaya and brings his horses to Bamaga, to teach students at Bamaga Senior Campus how to handle a horse. The horses are 'students' too and during the term all will progress to get a better understanding of the other. In early October spring feels like summer in the NPA and the horses appreciate a cool shower, here carried out by Irie.

Above: Rowena.

Each of the Year 12 students has a turn in brushing the horse, hands-on opportunity for first contact. Marble, the 4-year old horse, has never been ridden, has never had a mouthpiece or worn a saddle.

Part of the exercise is to lead the horse around the enclosure. The horse responds to signals for start and stop. On 'stop' it should come in close, and it does, expecting a little affection, and if it doesn't get it will give it instead.

Lino and Screen Printmaking

With the support of Injinoo Healing Centre and NPA Mensheds Ms Liz Hunter and Ms Hanna Parker conducted a 5day workshop into lino-cutting screen printing (at NPA Art Centre, New Mapoon), with a number students getting involved.

NPA Mini Rodeo took place near Yusia Ginau Memorial Field, Bamaga, with local saddle broncs and poddy rides providing the action and Mr Nathan Campbell providing the music.

Thanks to the many that supported this event and the CDEP team for erecting and dismantling the enclosure.

I was too scared to fall off

Mr Jeffrey Hodgetts: "I grew up in the bush, on a cattle property. I'm one of six kids. By the time I came around things had changed, parents' values to children had changed. As last in the line I always got second-hand hand-me-downs. I never had anything given to me until my first rodeo. I was eight years old and I rode the poddy calves... and I won. I came first and it was the first time in my life that I felt that I accomplished something. So I rode rodeos all my life. The last time I rode was in 1987 and I won the bull ride at Mareeba Rodeo. I won a saddle (valued at $3000), a buckle, and a photograph of myself and all the gear. It gave me in all of those years the strength to tell myself that I am capable of anything. If I can be at one with a beast and learn what he is trying to do and counteract that,... to learn a skill, and a skill that would scare the living daylights out of most people, and turn that around and put it into your life,... here I am today, proud to be the paramedic covering the rodeo, to care for the injured and relive part of my youth. So a tribute, personally, I attribute a lot of my success in my life to the determination that I had to put in to bull riding and riding saddle broncs to my own life now. I apply that every day and I succeed, and if you apply that you will succeed."

"I think that the kids up here (in the NPA) doing the rodeo should take it onboard that they are incredibly brave young men and go with that. It's about the kids taking something away with them, other than bruises and sore muscles. It's great they are doing something together and learning at the same time."

When asked 'what is it like when you're 8 years old:' "I was scared to death, absolutely scared to death. I was too scared to fall off, I think that's why I've won, too scared to fall off. Over the years that fear turns into skill. You know what he's going to do. You can counter-act, counter-balance, keeps you fit and keeps you strong. You can't drink alcohol, you can't take drugs, because you do either of those and he'll get the better of you, every time. You got to be clear-headed, straight and narrow with exactly what you're going to do, how you're going to do it, and do it, and you will succeed, especially on a bull."

Blow until I say: 'Stop'

28th Oct, 2011, Location: Bamaga where many drivers were stopped by Cairns Traffic branch and officers from the Random Drug Detection Unit.

Sergeant David Dasey is from Brisbane working for the Roadside Drug testing Unit. "We're up in the Cape in conjunction with the members from the Far Northern Region Drug Squad in conjunction with the National Weed-it-out Programme. It is basically a capacity building strategy with the communities to control and work out the effects of cannabis in the communities and help try to rid the communities of cannabis."

O'Brien is speaking from Bamaga Police station, "I'm with the Cairns Police and currently in Bamaga at the moment with the Weed-it-out project. With the project we travel throughout Cape York and also up through Torres Strait. We're trying to sell the message in relation to the supply and reduction of cannabis getting into Cape York and Torres Strait communities. We are all about, obviously being police officers, but the project itself kicked off in 2007 and we are funded by the Department of Ageing and Nursing in Canberra and we work in partnership with James Cook University."

"We're all about trying to look at different approaches in trying to assist Cape York and Torres Strait communities in trying to stop cannabis coming into the communities. Obviously the first thing it's illegal, everyone knows that cannabis is illegal, but through the project we're trying to show things like the health effects and the flow-on how it affects the community and the family. Through the project we identified teenage suicides have really gone up (meaning not Cape York specific, but overall). We identified that the health issues psychosis, mental illness, depression... we've identified that depression has really been affected by abuse of cannabis. We do communities like Wujal, Hopevale, Aurukun, Kowanyama, the NPA, and the majority of the islands in the Torres Strait, up to Saibai, just south of PNG. Every community is different, we are aware of that."

"Not only are we looking at the health side of things, we're here to support them as far as drivers driving with cannabis in their system."

"With roadside drug testing it's very similar with breath testing. We pick it up at the side of the road. If it's positive we do a second test. If the second test is positive again for the drug it is then sent off to the government laboratory in Brisbane to analyse it. We then get a result back what the drug is in the system and then we commence action with a court appearance from there."

The car is marked: RDTU (Roadside Drug Testing Unit).

The group works together with justice groups, men's' and women's' groups, "We work closely with the health groups and the hospital in the NPA and ATODS (Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drugs). As I said: every community is different, so we're trying to identify different approaches in the different communities."

"Our biggest concern is obviously the health issues. NPA is a good example of this. We have alcohol restrictions in the NPA. Some of the other communities like Aurukun, Kowanyama, are completely dry. We've identified that there has been a move from alcohol to now cannabis abuse, which makes it extremely difficult."

"A lot of communities that people are on work programme, so they are not working fulltime and be on limited funds. Obviously if you have a cannabis addition a lot of your money is going to be subsidised to using cannabis. Very quickly if mum and dad have a cannabis addiction more than half the money is going to cannabis. The kids are not being fed, they are not being looked after as well as they should be, and also they are not going to school. The whole family, the whole community is breaking down. We're all about not coming and saying 'we're the police, you're doing the wrong thing,' we are trying to identify people within the community that want to be able to help their communities work with us and try to make a few changes."

"If people get caught with cannabis, obviously illegal, they will be charged with possession of a dangerous drug and will be required to go to court. Through this project we are not trying to come in and knock on everyone's door and say 'hand over your drugs,' We try to work with the community to say, 'look, it's wrong, it's illegal.' We got to work together to try to stop it coming in. So the project is all about to stop the bigger dealers, bringing the cannabis into the community or growing it, because when the dealers come in they are selling all their cannabis, they are driving out with the communities' money. That money is only limited in the community, it is not going through the shop, it's not going through the schools, it's not being passed on. It's going to some fat-cat's pocket down in Cairns. They drive out all the money. The after-effects are left in the community. That's what we're trying to identify, so it's all about the supply reduction to stop cannabis coming into the communities."

"We are aware that a lot of people in the community don't feel strong and confident to speak to the police, to pass on the information as to who is bringing it in and who the troublemakers are. What we're trying to say is, 'if you find whether it's an elder in the community or one of the justice workers or one of the health workers where you feel you can talk to them, they might be able to pass on the information to police.' The biggest thing is they can make a call to crimestoppers (tel: 1800 333 000), it's a free phone call. If they wish to not pass on their name that information will not be passed on to police. If we identify that a certain person is coming into the NPA then we can come up here and try to target them."

Cairns Traffic branch and officers from the Random Drug Detection Unit explain: "Blowing into a bag is testing for alcohol in the body. Drug testing is done with a small plastic item with two little brushes on it. It is rubbed along the tongue (a swab) and within 5 minutes can identify if person has used cannabis or other drugs. If the second roadside drug test is also positive it will be sent to Brisbane for further analysis. If it proves that user has drugs in the system the person is then charged."

"One of the biggest problems we have people buying gunja, cannabis in Cape York communities, NPA and also through the Torres Straits is that in Cairns people pay $20 for a sachet, or 1 gram of cannabis, unfortunately through NPA, Cape York and the Torres Strait, people are paying up to $75. We know people have identified the NPA, Cape York, Torres Strait and islands as an easier option to push themselves, drugs onto people and making lots of money. Unfortunately, as I said before, all that money is coming out of the community and it's all going to the drug dealers. As I said, here they are paying a phenomenal amount of money for it, much higher than you'd pay down south."

Bamaga fire

The Rural Fire Brigade prevented a fire from getting too close to Bamaga Hospital.

What's your bid?

In its heyday it looked similar to the one above, but as Lot 44 in the recent Bamaga auction it looked as image below.

had gas and brake modifications so that it could be operated by hand only and as such was the only car in NPARC's fleet able to be driven by one of NPARC's employees who had such a need. It was stolen 18th Jan or early 19th January, 2011 and found shortly later, just 3km out of Bamaga in this condition (below, Jan 2011, reported in NPA News, issue 22).

It never drove again and it was never replaced. At the Bamaga October auction it fetched $50. Whoever wrecked it was never caught.

HACC bus gone

On 8th Nov, 2011, HACC employees find their only bus with wheelchair access had disappeared. Ms Moira Aniba is very disappointed that anyone could do that to their own grandparents.

Grandparents Day in the NPA is on 8th Nov and sadly people could not be transported to the planned events.

"This sort of thing we never expected," says Ms Aniba. "It was very disappointing someone to do this kind of stupid thing especially since HACC provides a service to their grandparents. You know how long we have this service and building going, none of this ever happened." The staff at HACC also saddened by such mindless action.

The bus was found on the same day with damage to the side door and above the window. The ignition key was missing and the sliding door's window is smashed.

To make a difference

Most days of the year are dedicated to a special cause. There is Mothers' Day, Fathers' Day and others. There many Thanksgiving Day and many around the world celebrate the time of harvest. But there is not really a day in Australia, the NPA, or anywhere else where we say 'thanks' to those that helped to make something possible, to help improve the lives of its people, or to have things work the way they should.

All too often we take for granted that the toilet works, in one flush it's all gone. It only works because there is water to flush with; there is power to drive the pumps. On the other end someone ensures the grid is kept clean, the pipes don't leak, the ponds are doing their job. The rubbish is collected, the bulk items are properly disposed of, the grass is cut and thousands of items of debris are manually collected and bagged.

There are organisations, groups and individuals dedicated to help others, be that with one's addiction (smoke, drink, drugs), overcoming or coping with serious illness, chronic disease, loss in the family, assisting the elderly or protecting and guiding the young. There is help and counselling for victims of violence and abuse and programmes and organisations that can help offenders.

are training There courses, opportunities to gain new skills and knowledge to be able to fill the need in the communities, as well as to advance one's own prospects. There is support and facilities for artists to exchange ideas, further one's skills and invitations to exhibit their works to a wider audience. There are many who train and rehearse in their own time so that their performance as musicians, dancers or performers can be enjoyed by many others. Behind them are many more sewing the costumes, repairing the head-dress, cleaning the clothing, organising the tickets, the accommodation, the medication, the passports, the entry visas and whatever else.

Flash Women

The 'largest ever contemporary Torres Strait Islander Art show' in Brisbane has come to a close (1st July to 23rd Oct), while 'Flash Women' is about to open at the State Library of Queensland.

"Flash Women features the eclectic, vibrant and stylish collection of favourite fashions worn by Indigenous women over the past 80 years," says Minister Rachel Nolan (Finance, Natural Resources and The Arts).

"The exhibition profiles a range of women, from respected community elders such as author, activist and educator Aunty Ruth Hegarty, to talented young Torres Strait Islander fashion designer Grace Lee and founder of the ...

Boatsafe Course

TAFE is conducting a Boatsafe Course (21 and 22 Nov), the outcome of which is a Recreational Marine Drivers Licence (RMDL), sometimes referred to as Recreational Ship Masters Licence. A course of Jet Ski Licence is included in this.

Late News: Course was cancelled.

To make a difference ...continued

There are volunteers who consistently fill roles that need filling and there are many living in faraway places whose work has an impact here, even though some may have no idea where the NPA is. Some know the legislations, the procedures, the processes to follow, which boxes to tick, the when, where and how to apply, to get things moving.

There is tremendous business support for community events, but also assistance for individuals in need. There is support from the services, police, ambulance, fire fighters and health workers being actively involved in each of the communities. There are very dedicated teachers in NPA schools; there are parents, aunts, uncles and grandparents who ensure their children attend school each day.

We rely on others and others rely on us. A chain is as strong as its weakest link. There are those that go beyond their normal work to ensure the weakest links doesn't break the chain, that the work of those that don't show up for work is still done, despite. There are those that show up for work on time consistently and many find their work rewarding. Some go out of their way to ensure another is not left wanting and many make а tremendous contribution at their own sacrifice; put their own wants on hold for the needs of the other.

There are the hunters that feed the people in their communities when money is tight; there are the many hands that come from nowhere when the need arises. There are those that can inspire others, can stop the drinker from having another one and can calm flaring tempers, welcome back the ones who spent time at Mareeba.

Many share their gift of fortune, knowledge or skill, a fish, a carved pendant, a better suggestion or simply a 'Hello'.

Despite all that life it is never perfect, nor can it ever be, that's just the nature of life. There cannot be one without the other and therefore all the opposites are also true, but where would we be without all those that make or try to make a difference?

Qld Local Gov Elections

The first term of NPA Regional Council comes to an end early next year. On 31st March, 2012, the Queensland Local Government will hold elections for Councillors for each of the 5 communities and for the position of NPARC Mayor and Deputy Mayor.

A meeting at New Mapoon (1-3pm on 28th Nov) will inform of what is involved in becoming a councillor.

The Queensland Government website: dlgp.qld.gov.au/council-elections provides more about the subject and is an excellent source of information. There are six easy to follow modules which give a broad understanding of what is involved.

To be eligible to stand for an election as councillor a candidate must be an Australian citizen, live in the local government's area and be eligible to vote.

In Queensland local government elections are held every four years and are conducted by the Electoral Commission of Queensland (ECQ).

Thanks to SeaSwift

When a generator at NPA airport broke down, SeaSwift Depot Manager, Mr Graeme Boydell, did not hesitate a second and brought a SeaSwift generator to the airport to supply the airport manager's house and the terminal with electricity. SeaSwift loaned the generator for 10 days, enabling a hire generator to come up which was eventually replaced. 'Thank you' to Mr Boydell and SeaSwift.
